Bright lights, sirens crank up Fire Prevention Week kickoff

Twenty-seven fire trucks from western Maine FDs paraded through Bryant Pond Village Saturday evening, their lights flashing and sirens screaming. The "Parade of Lights" was sponsored by the Greenwood and Woodstock fire departments, and intended to raise awareness of Fire Prevention Week, which began Sunday. Following the parade fire-fighters and residents gathered at the Woodstock Fire Station, to enjoy fried dough, French fries, hot dogs and popovers prepared by the two departments' auxiliaries, and to examine a variety of fire-prevention educational materials. Woodstock Fire Chief Geff Inman said he hopes to make the event an annual affair, on the Saturday of Columbus Day Weekend. Awards were presented for the oldest (Greenwood) and newest (Andover) fire trucks, as well as the one from farthest away (Mechanic Falls) and the chief's choice (Dixfield, for its ladder truck). The fire station "was packed" post parade, Inman said, and he expresses his thanks to all who attended. Lower right: the sirens, which could be heard miles away, were a bit too strong for Mason Huggins ("almost 3") of Woodstock. (Photo: M. Daniels)

Roxbury ATVers eye linking their trails to those in Bethel area

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Roxbury ATV Riders Club, located 30 miles north of Bethel, boasts more than 300 members, 75 of them from the Bethel area.

The club's treasurer, Jane Ryerson, is a Bethel resident, and there are two "supporting businesses" here, Sun Valley Sports and Stony Brook Campground in Hanover.

But the club's extensive trail system of more than 220 miles has no direct way of connecting to the trail systems here, according to club President Mike Worthley.

The lifelong Roxbury resident would like to change that.

"I've never been to Bethel by ATV," Worthley said, adding that he particularly wants to visit the ice caves in nearby Greenwood.

In return, should the missing link be forged, the Roxbury Club will soon be able to offer ATVers from this area a trailside view of the Record Hill wind towers.

Club president says businesses in both areas would benefit.

Worthley said the club plans to build a turnout on its current trail system, clear some trees (photo at top of page), and open an unobstructed view of the Record Hill ridgeline.

With a little luck, there could even be an up-close look.

SAD 44 receives unexpected gift of $50,000

By ALISON ALOISIO

SAD 44 has received an anonymous donation of $50,000, with the request that it be used to upgrade the sound and lighting systems at the Telstar auditorium, buy equipment for the elementary music program and help fund the district's Wellness Team.

The donor's only request in return is that a plaque be placed in the Helen C. Berry Auditorium stating that the donation was made "in honor of the Cross Brothers of Mt. Abram," according to Bethel school director Lainey Cross, who announced the donation at Tuesday's School Board meeting.

Cross is a member of the family that established Mt. Abram ski area and operated it for many years.

In a prepared statement, she said, "I am writing to inform you that I have recently received a donation in the sum of $50,000 by a donor choosing to remain anonymous."

She said the person asked that $5,000 go to the Wellness Team, which promotes health and wellness for staff and students through various activities and projects.

In addition, the donor requested that choral risers be purchased for elementary music, and that the remainder go toward the THS sound/light upgrade.

If any funds are left after those projects, the balance would go to the THS Drama

United Methodists bless our four-legged friends

By ALISON ALOISIO

Last Saturday afternoon Pastor Carl Stevens blessed the flock on the front lawn of the Bethel United Methodist Church.

But in this case, the flock was more of a pack — 10 dogs who turned out with their people for the church's first annual "Blessing of the Animals."

The blessing, given by churches in October, honors St. Francis of Assisi and his love of animals.

The Bethel group gathered under warm, bright sunshine at the Main Street church.

There was a Great Pyrenees puppy (120 pounds), a couple of black labs, a small poodle, a Sheba Inu and an assortment of mutts.

Some belonged to church members, some to non-members.

One dog and person happened by on the sidewalk and were invited to join in.

The dogs waited patiently for the blessing to start, visiting with each other and drinking water from several bowls that had been set out.

"I've always wanted to do this," said Stevens, who owns a dog herself, Foxy.

She greeted the participants, read from Genesis about animals on the ark, and played recorded music (including "All

Bethel's winter snows and skiing inspired Alpine watercolorist

By ALISON ALOISIO

Winter watercolors featured in a recent exhibition at the world's first ski club were created by a woman who fell in love with the snowy scenes in Bethel.

From June through September, paintings of the Alps by Janet Johnson were on display at the Alpine Club of London, England.

A native of Pennsylvania, Johnson spent the summers of her youth at her family's camp in this area, and she sometimes returned to Bethel for Christmas.

She now lives in London with her husband.

"My love of snow and the wintery landscapes came from spending Christmas in Bethel," Johnson said.

Another love has roots here as well. "We skied at Mt. Abram and Sunday River," she said.

"THE INTERSECTION DESIGN HAD NO NEGATIVE EFFECT IN THIS ACCIDENT," said Oxford County Deputy Mike Parshall, who responded to a two-car collision Monday afternoon at the much-maligned juncture of Route 2 and the Bethel Parkway. Here Bethel Rescue finds Chantal M. Tedford, 19, of Bethel, the driver and sole occupant of a Honda sedan struck by a SUV as the smaller car attempted to enter the Rite Aid parking lot. Tedford was transported to SMH by Bethel Rescue, where she was treated for bumps, bruises and wrist pain. Three of the four occupants of the SUV, who complained of pain, were also transported to SMH, by Bethel Rescue and PACE. Deputy Parshall said Tedford, who had been traveling eastward on Route 2, failed to yield to the westbound SUV. "Evidence in the sedan indicated that the driver may have been distracted, as a plate of food and beverage were strewn about the front interior of the sedan. But Tedford denied being distracted, he said, and due to the severity of the damage to the car, "I would not be able to list it as a part of the causation of the crash." The SUV was driven by David Boone, 69, of Dripping Springs, Texas. (Photo: M. Daniels)

VETERANS MONUMENT UPDATE

To the Editor:

The committee held its second meeting of the full committee on Sept. 27, 2011 to check progress being made on some of the sub-committees and to vote on some issues still unresolved. Committee Chair Rich Grover announced that we have received our first donation of $100 toward the building of the monument. Bethel Legion Post 81 opened a new savings account dedicated to that effort.

This subject spawned discussions about whether we need to make this an officially sanctioned nonprofit organization which will qualify donations as tax-deductible contributions for tax purposes.

This will be researched by Post 81 finance officer Brian Strickland and Jarrod Crockett. Mona Grover volunteered to serve as committee finance officer to keep records of all donations and expenditures in this effort.

Craig Ryerson recommended that our monument effort be re-titled as an "Honor Roll" which will be dedicated to living as well as deceased veterans. This will allow our many surviving World War II veterans and those who have served in wars and conflicts since WWII to see their names being honored and remembered. After discussions, this concept was voted and approved by everyone present. What is not yet decided is precisely what we will call this tribute to our veterans.

Members present also voted to have the names honored identified as to the war or conflict during which they served. Those veterans who served during peace time will have their names so identified. The design of the eventual physical monument or honor roll is yet to be determined.

Much discussion addressed the issue of just whose names should be included. The one factor that everyone agreed on was that a veteran's "Home of Record" while in the service should be the principal guiding factor, when that can be determined. One's home of record is that town the veteran listed in his/her official records as the place they wanted to be so recognized. Jane and Craig Ryerson went to the Adjutant General's office in Augusta to research Maine state records in an effort to obtain an official record of Mainer who served from Bethel and surrounding communities. These will be compared with cemetery lists and other available sources.

Members present seemed to agree that veterans buried in local cemeteries who are not listed on monuments elsewhere should be listed as should veterans who moved here after their military service and have lived here more than 20 years, also provided they are not listed on monuments somewhere else.

Bob Laux gave a brief update on the status of the Site Selection Subcommittee efforts. He stated that the subcommittee has identified four locations which are considered the best available within Bethel Village, and he expects that they will be ready to make public their recommendations within about a month to six weeks.

As committee chair, I wish to thanks to all those who have expressed opinions about our efforts, particularly in our efforts to decide the best criteria for selecting names.

I appreciate their taking time to let us know their thoughts, even if they are different from my own. I want this effort to be a community effort, and I want the widest practical range of opinions so we can be sure to consider all angles.

LET'S ACT TOGETHER ON LOCAL GAS PRICES

To the Editor:

This past week on Oct. 5 I had occasion to be driving home from Belfast, Maine. As she traveled West on Route 139 to Norridgewock and then on to Farmington, Wilton, Dixfield, Mexico and Rumford she viewed the gas prices in each of these towns. The further inland one traveled the cheaper the gas. Odd, when you think about it, The tankers have to travel further and the gas is cheaper. She saw gas prices in Unity, Benton and Fairfield ranging from $3.39 per gallon to the lowest at the Irving station in Fairfield at $3.33. Upon arriving in Bethel she checked the prices in her hometown and wasn't surprised to find them at $3.58 per gallon.

Wondering how this could be, she interviewed the manager at an Irving station in a neighboring town and asked how the price for his station was determined. He used the term "area-sensitive" in reference to pricing. From his explanation I gathered the managers of each service station in their area determined the price, faxed the information to their respective oil companies to get an OK, then once received, the price is posted. Everyone gets a fair shake at the business in their "area sensitive" locality.

Everyone but those who live in Bethel. He told me that Bethel has always been high. And why is that? Does it follow that because it has always been high that it must remain so? Lower prices in Bethel might very well mean that more people in town would fill up here instead of doing so in neighboring towns. Is it because we are a tourist town and thanks to that Jane and John Q have to pay for that?

People all over our nation are getting angry over the rank greed of banks, oil companies and big business in general. Do we have to put up with it? Yes, we will, just as long as we keep our mouths shut. So what are we going to do about it? Are we to continue to sit back and do nothing and grumble as we fill our tanks or will we let the managers of our three gas stations know how we feel? Go see them. We can write letters, boycott or picket the station. Do we enjoy helping others become wealthy while we struggle at the pumps to pay outrageous gas prices? Come on people, we are still a somewhat free nation and supply and demand still works. Collectively, we can effect change. One or two little voices in the wilderness won't amount to much. We are not powerless but we do need to act.

Once again, Oxford County residents rated as the least health in the state

By LESLIE DIXON, Sun Media

Oxford County remains the least healthy county in the state for the second year in a row, according to a nationwide, county by county health assessment report released late last week.

The figures show a high rate for motor vehicle accident deaths, violent crimes and adult smoking in Oxford County.

According to the report, which in part looks at socio-economic indicators, Oxford County has a high rate of unemployment which relates to no or limited health insurance and other factors that officials say could bring the county ranking down.

The countywide figures were released at a community health needs assessment forum of local area health, police and school officials and others at the Oxford Hills Comprehensive High School on Thursday. The county survey, done by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation and the University of Wisconsin, uses 27 indicators of health and is done once a year on a nationwide basis.

The county figures were also augmented with a new community health needs assessment done by One Maine Health Collaborative which showed that a high percentage of Oxford County adults from ages 8 to 64 are uninsured and that 23 percent of Oxford residents report their health to be fair to poor.

The new One Maine Health Collaborative survey looked at all 16 counties in Maine and used hundreds of measures to determine health risks, said local health officials from the Stephens Memorial Hospital, who sponsored the forum.

The First Years: Matilda Comes, Living off the Land

I learned a great deal about gardening and weeds this first summer and in succeeding years. Some weeds are disastrous if you do not eradicate them promptly. Others are very good to eat. Pigweed springs up all over from June until frost. The roots are shallow and can be yanked out easily. I can hardly wait to get the first young plants to eat. It tastes much better than spinach, comes much earlier, and like Topsy just grows with no care. Eight-to-ten-inch-high plants are best. Go out with a pail. Gather a left handful, with the right hand cut off the roots and lower stem. A big supply is ready in no time. Fill the pail with water and swish the leaves about. One washing is enough as liquid runs off the leaves.

Cook like spinach, maybe a bit loner, dump into a strainer or big sieve, cut crossways a few slashes with a knife, sprinkle on a bit of salt, slather on some butter, and serve in a silver dish to retain the heat. Add a dash of vinegar at table if you wish.

It is Lucullan food.

I have been amazed to find many people who have never tasted it. The common name creates a prejudice. Now I say nothing. When someone asks what variety of spinach it is, as it is the best he has ever tasted, I answer it is not spinach at all but "Chenopodium album."

If not pulled, it will grow several feet high. This usually happens in the asparagus bed. As soon as we stop cutting, traditionally on the Fourth of July, it is time to fertilize, thoroughly weed the bed, then nothing more to do until the dead brown tops are cut off in November.

Other garden chores are pressing in early July; it takes a week or so before I get back to tend the asparagus. By then the pigweed is at least two feet high, but this is one weeding chore that is fun. In less than half an hour several bushel baskets are filled and dumped over the stone wall. If the hunger for "Chenopodium album" is still unabated, you can still snip off the tender top leaves as you pull each plant.

Purslane is another weed that grows luxuriantly, but tending to this is a sitting-down job. It is best to wait until the plants are ten to twelve inches in diameter. Shoots radiate out from the center into a circle.

The stems are as big as a pencil, getting smaller at the tips, a reddish color with the texture of rubber. The round leaves are a glossy dark holly green. In early morning there are tiny yellow flowers at the forkings on the stem. It makes a dense mat that could be used for a ground cover. The hollow stems are tremendous water consumers, thus it is not welcome in a vegetable garden.

It is very difficult to eradicate; only a few of the tiny black seeds can pepper a whole garden. Each year I try to dig it all out, basket after basket full, never succeed. But I do not despair. If you think of it as choking out the vegetables, it is like an octopus reaching out its terrible tendrils.

I think of it growing in Persia two thousand years ago, wonder if the characters in the Arabian nights nibbled the tender tips of the leaves.

This too is good to eat; the leaves add zest to a green salad. It can be cooked like spinach but even using its Latin name "Portulaca chloracea" has never gained its popularity in this household. Maybe because it comes later in the season after the first cravings for food direct from the ground have passed.

I do make a few jars of pickles each year for my gourmet friends to serve at their cocktail parties. It takes time to pick the biggest part of the red stem, strip the leaves, and pack four-inch-long pieces in a jar. After that, no work. Cover it with a brine made from mixing four parts of vinegar to one part each of sugar, salt, dry mustard; put on a rubber and the jar cover.

It is put up cold; you can do it sitting outside on the grass. Keep for a few months to season before eating.

Club account. "What a wonderful donation this is," said Board Chair Sid Pew.

Supt. Dave Murphy agreed, noting that the district had been considering using some of its remaining American Recovery and Reinvestment Act funds toward the auditorium upgrade, and that money could now be used elsewhere.

"What a tremendous opportunity this is for us," he said.

ARRA allocations

Directors learned Tuesday of the Finance Committee's decision on the allocation of the district's remaining $180,000 in ARRA funds, out of a three-year total of $850,000 received.

The deadline to allocate the money was Sept. 30, and projects must be completed by the end of the year.

Last month directors authorized Murphy and the committee to decide how to use the money, which came with strict guidelines for its use.

The money will be distributed as follows: $64,654 to purchase 70 laptop computers to replace Grade 6 laptops (which will become replacements for Grades 4 and 5); $37,975 for the installation of low-flow fixtures at the Telstar complex, as outlined in a recent energy audit/upgrade study; $34,328 for LED replacement lights at Telstar, also from the energy audit; $16,421 to repair the Andover Elementary School roof (work awarded to J.L. Adler Carpentry); $6,231 for flooring and hallway carpet replacement at the Woodstock Elementary School (Floor Systems Inc.); $6,127 for painting and exterior repairs at WES (Ant's Construction); $5,704 for cafeteria carpet replacement at the Crescent Park School (Floor Systems) $4,500 for exterior painting at CPS (James Painting and Renovations); and $6,352 for costs previously approved by the state associated with the 2011 district summer school.

The committee also directed Murphy to apply for a Quality School Construction Bond, through the Maine Department of Education, in order to secure low-rate financing for other funding relating to energy upgrades at Telstar.

Murphy said taxpayers have set aside $1.2 million in a Capital Improvement Account, but that likely will not be enough to make all the recommended upgrades.

PEP grant

Murphy updated the board on the award of a Carol M. White Physical Education Program grant from the U.S. Department of Education, which SAD 44 will share in with SAD 17. The grant will total $1.2 million over three years.

He said after the meeting that the "Body, Mind and Spirit" grant "will see a coordinated effort on the part of many agencies working together to benefit area students in terms of physical education, nutrition and life-long learning opportunities that are connected to our natural environment."

"Students are certain to benefit from an emphasis on experiential learning, dance, outdoor education and even inline skating that this grant will bring to our area."

Cardio activities will become an important part of PE classes, and new physical education and nutrition strategies will be introduced.

New technology like heart rate monitors, hand-held computers and other devices have been included in this proposal.

"The grant did an outstanding job of connecting important student-centered organizations in the area. In the Bethel area, the Mahosuc Kids Association and the UMaine 4-H Camp & Learning Center at Bryant Pond will be important partners in these efforts."

A variety of cardio related equipment will be purchased in year one.

"In addition, a wide array of outdoor recreation equipment such as canoes, kayaks, cross-country skis and snowshoes will be made available to our students as a result of this grant. Our connection to the 4-H camp will also be expanded."

A project director will work with lead teachers from both districts to coordinate the efforts.

Personnel items

In other business, directors approved a two-year contract extension for THS principal Dan Hart, with no salary increase or benefits change for FY'12, and salary for FY'13 to be determined, again with no benefits change.

A similar package was approved for Adult/Community Education Director Jean Waite, but her FY'12 salary of $62,370 represents a drop from FY'11's $65,340, as a result of a 10-day reduction in her annual schedule.

Murphy also announced the return on an hourly, part-time basis of former business manager Bruce Powell to provide some support in business matters.

Since Powell's retirement several years ago, the board has contracted for such services as needed, and Murphy said he anticipates the cost will remain about the same.

Early figures on state aid look positive for SAD 44, Murphy said, with an additional $100,000 more projected for FY'13.

Sewer-rate hearing Monday

BETHEL—Selectmen will conduct a public hearing at 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 17, on a proposed 5.06 percent increase in sewer customer billing rates. The meeting will be held at the town office. Currently, a minimum quarterly charge of $115.50 is assessed, based on a minimum volume of 1,500 cubic feet, regardless of actual metered water usage below that volume, according to a recent report. A rate of $7.70 per 100 cubic feet of metered water usage is now assessed above 1,500 cubic feet of metered water usage. Effective this month, a minimum quarterly charge not to exceed $121.35 will be assessed, based on a minimum volume of 1,500 cubic feet, regardless of actual metered water usage below that volume. The new rate will be reflected on January bills. A rate not to exceed $8.09 per 100 cubic feet of metered water usage will be assessed above 1,500 cubic feet of usage. Written comment prior to the hearing may also be provided to: Town of Bethel, P.O. Box 1660, Bethel, ME 04217, or info@bethelmaine.org. For more information, call 824-2669.

Community event at airport Saturday

BETHEL—The third annual Airport Community Event will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 15, at the Bethel Regional Airport. The timing is to take advantage of Western Maine's fall foliage and to promote aviation, Tony Milligan, airport coordinator and assistant manager, said Sunday by email. "Ordinarily, scenic flights are not offered at the airport because a commercial operator is not based on field, but the FAA grants special approval each year to take the public up for a scenic flight," Milligan said. Weather permitting, fall foliage scenic flights will be offered to the public by local volunteer qualified pilots for a requested minimum donation of $25 a person to cover costs. All proceeds will directly benefit the Bethel Regional Airport. Additionally, there will be aircraft displays, powered parachutes, food, music and fun. "Come support your local regional airport, enjoy some good food and treat yourself to the wonders of an exhilarating scenic flight in Western Maine," Milligan said. "Cameras are welcome!" The rain date is Sunday, Oct. 16. For more information, call 824-3100 or the Airport Information Line at 512-5552.

underway on the wind farm, one of the club's trails crossed the ridge and went on to connect with Horseshoe Valley Road.

That trail has been discontinued while the construction is underway, Worthley said, but he expects it to be reopened when the project is completed, and he has had preliminary discussions about the possibility of putting in a small, on-site picnic area for ATVs.

If such varied attractions of western Maine could be linked by a single ATV trail system, he argues, businesses (especially food and gas outlets) throughout the area would benefit from the increased traffic.

A family activity
Worthley, who has been ATVer for 20 years, and said that for most club members the sport is essentially a family activity.

He and his wife, Wanda, have 12 grandchildren, and he recently purchased a new Polaris Ranger Crew four-seat 4X4, so he can take the ones under 10 with him on rides.

"They're always wanting to go for a ride," he said.

The rides begin in the Worthleys' backyard, off Roxbury Notch Road, and radiate out on trails through Andover, Byron, Mexico and Rumford.

In places the ATV trails in the area connect over town roads, which several local towns allow the "wheelers" to use.

The Roxbury Club also organizes several group rides over the course of the season, many devoted to raising money for charities, including the Diabetes Association, Bethel Christmas for Families, Mexico Santa's Helpers, Oxford County Families in Crisis, the Andover Food Pantry, the Donald E. Ryerson Child Welfare Fund and the Hope Association.

And for each of the past two years, the club rides have generated $3,000 for the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Maine.

There are also rides to cover expenses.

This past Saturday, 174 participants on 136 machines turned out for a poker run and chicken barbecue that raised $1,700 toward the roughly $40,000 the club spends each year on trail maintenance (the bulk of the balance comes from municipal and other grants).

The riders came from clubs all across the state, Worthley said.

He added that having active ATV clubs in towns like Andover, Upton and Bethel would be a big help when it comes to the trail work, "but it's hard to get people to make the commitment of time and effort."

What's not hard at all, he said, is attracting wheelers to the area.

"We have dust, we have mud, we have views — we've got it all."

He thanked the club's more than 50 landowners for that.

"Without them, there would be no trails."

HAUTE ROUTE—A watercolor of the Alps by Janet Johnson. The inset painting depicts East Royce Mountain in Evans Notch.

Her taste for art and painting came from her mother, Diana, also an artist.

"Before I went to elementary school, I sat with her at the dining room table and drew alongside her, so she could get on with her own work. Mom instilled her love of nature and keen observation in me."

Her mother also painted summer scenes in Bethel, including mountains and lakes.

"Once I was in senior high school, I started to take my own talent more seriously when having to decide whether to go to college or art school," she said.

Johnson chose Tyler School of Art in Philadelphia, graduating in 1980.

She began painting the Alps in the late 1980s.

"I started doing alpine scenes after completing the walker's Haute [high] Route in 2008. I think I found my subject in the mountains, as I so wanted to record what I saw. My watercolor painting style is direct, and takes time for me to decide about the colors and strokes even though they may look sketchy.

"The images are distilled from the kernel of great moments that keep coming back to me in my mind's eye. I wanted to be there again, so I painted it."

Her alpine work is currently on exhibit in hotels in Ar-gentiere, France near Mont Blanc, and in Zermatt, Switzerland, near the Matterhorn.

Johnson continues to come to Bethel regularly in the summer to enjoy the outdoors.

"My husband and I go hiking and canoeing, now that we are older and want to explore the area," she said. "One of our favorite trips is canoeing down the Saco River and staying overnight in a tent on a sandy bank. We have been on the East Royce Trail, which is nothing like the open landscape of the Alps, with rocks clattering down, glaciers creaking as they move. We have been to Mount Washington a number of times, walking down from the top or walking up to Tuckerman's Ravine."

She has also painted some local scenes, including East Royce Mountain.

"It has only been in later years that I painted the water, the mountains, and the ferns, like my mother did," she said.

Blessing

God's Critters Have a Place in the Choir").

"The animals of God's creation inhabit the skies, the earth, and the sea. They share in the fortunes of human existence and have a part in human life," she said.

Stevens then made the rounds of the canines, touching each on the head and saying, "Bless, O Lord, this creature, and fill our hearts with thanksgiving for its being."

To the laughter of the crowd, one human earned a blessing himself by sitting up and pretending to beg like a dog.

Following the blessing, dog treats were served and the pooches enjoyed more fellowship with each other.

"I was amazed at how well they got along," church member Musa Brown said afterward.

Brown brought her own unique "pet" for a blessing — a stuffed moose named "Cardiac Carl."

The moose was given to her at Central Maine Medical Center five years ago, when she had heart surgery.

Afterward, heart patients are instructed to cough regularly to keep their lungs clear. To prevent stitches from breaking, CMMC gives the patients a stuffed moose to hold against their chest when they cough.

"I carried him around for about three weeks," said Brown.

When the blessing was planned, she said, "My cat doesn't like to travel, so I brought the moose. He needed to be blessed. He did his job for me."

Brown said she hopes the animal blessing becomes an annual tradition for the church.

Stevens agreed. "I think it was a real success. I see that pets are a positive influence in [parishioners'] lives. Mine are in my life."

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

My two oldest grandsons at age 15 have reached a big milestone in their young lives...their drivers' permit. For Reese and Tristan the fun now begins. For their parents and even grandparents it will be the start of worry and frustration of a whole different kind.

For sometime to come these two boys will abandon their vocabulary in favor of only three words..."Can I drive?"

They will be willing to go places with their parents that in the past would have sent them running to their rooms, as long as they can drive.

Trips to the supermarket that they have shunned since they were old enough to understand that they couldn't get everything they teased for will now be a driving adventure that they will be happy to make as long as they can be behind the wheel.

I'm willing to bet that Reese and Tristan will spend endless hours discussing what their first cars will be; what they would be if money were no object and what they're likely to be because it is.

Thinking about these boys as newbie drivers takes me back a few years, actually, quite a few years to when I took Drivers' Ed. In the good old days of my high school years Drivers' Ed was part of the school curriculum. Now it's a costly but worthwhile investment in the young ones' driving future.

I have to admit that at 16 I was a pretty serious nervous Nellie when it came to driving, but I was an ace at the classroom part. There was no problem getting my permit, but I really didn't dare to take advantage of it very often. I was not one to ask, "Can I drive?"

I think part of my fear came from my first time behind the wheel of the Drivers' Ed car and the accident that I caused. I think I should have had at least a few lessons in driving forward before reverse was introduced.

I think I should have had at least a few lessons in driving forward before reverse was introduced.

Fortunately, my collision was with a cattle shed and not another vehicle. No injuries resulted and only a minor dent and a little scrapped paint on the car and one less stall to house cattle at the Oxford County Fairgrounds, for that was where the school took us to drive before they let us drive on the road where there would be other cars. At least in my case that was probably a smart move.

Though I was not very comfortable behind the wheel back then I did eventually take the driving test, which I flunked before I even got out on the road.

The car I took the test in, or as much of the test that I got to take, was a 1951 Buick; big, big car with a big, big steering wheel. Being only 5' tall I could barely see over that big, big steering wheel and therefore I couldn't see the 1965 little bitty car that was parked next to me. I also couldn't tell that the wheels in the front were actually pointed in the direction of that little bitty car.

Did you know that a big, big heavy car can move a little bitty car at 5 m.p.h.? Did you know that if you move a little bitty car with a big, big car while taking a drivers' test you automatically flunk?

Years later I took driving lessons again while living in Boston. In a big city I guess if you can make a couple of left turns and a couple of right turns without hitting anything you pass. Miraculously I didn't hit anything and passed the test. I have been a pretty competent driver since.

Now it's my grandsons turn to get behind the wheel. I hope they are much better at it than I was as a teenager. It will be several months before they are old enough to go for their license test and I'm sure they will both be good drivers by then.

Though I frequently tell the boys stories about when I was their age I don't think I will tell them about the cattle shed or the little bitty car. The way I see it the less they know about my driving failures the more of a driving force I can be in making sure they are competent drivers.

Blessing of the Animals

Ten dogs and about two dozen people gathered in front of the Methodist Church in Bethel Saturday for the first annual "Blessing of the Animals." Clockwise, from top left: Nancy Brown and Bailey wait for the blessing to start; Pierre the poodle listens politely as Pastor Carol Stevens does a reading; Stevens blesses Buddy, a collie mix, as Buddy's person, Phyllis Blake, watches; Stevens blesses Musa Brown's Cardiac Carl, the stuffed moose; Banjo the Great Pyrenees and Reese (right) size each other up. "It's a great way of showing our appreciation and love for not just our pets, but all animals," said Nancy Brown. (Photos: A. Aloisio)

TOWN OF BETHEL PUBLIC HEARING SEWER RATE INCREASE

The Bethel Board of Selectmen will conduct a public hearing on Monday, October 17, 2011 at 7 PM at the Bethel Town Office, 19 Main Street, Bethel, Maine for the purpose of receiving oral and written comment on a proposed 5.06% increase in sewer customer billing rates, as described below:

CURRENT BILLING RATE

A minimum quarterly charge of $115.50 is now assessed, based on a minimum volume of 1,500 cubic feet regardless of actual metered water usage below that volume.

A rate of $7.70 per 100 cubic feet of metered water usage is now assessed above 1,500 cubic feet of metered water usage.

PROPOSED BILLING RATE

Effective October, 2011, a minimum quarterly charge not to exceed $121.35 will be assessed, based on a minimum volume of 1,500 cubic feet regardless of actual metered water usage below that volume. The new rate will be reflected on January bills.

A rate not to exceed $8.09 per 100 cubic feet of metered water usage will be assessed above 1,500 cubic feet of metered water usage.

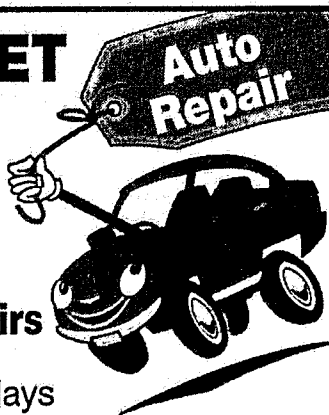

Written comment prior to the hearing may also be provided to Town of Bethel, P.O. Box 1660, Bethel, ME 04217 or info@bethelmaine.org. For more information call (207) 824-2669.

uphill toward Howard Pond. The weather was nice last weekend although Sunday seemed a little too warm. The foliage is just about as good as it gets right now.

Mason

By RICHARD GROVER

Mona and I departed on Sept. 29 to visit my son Dean's family in Colorado and daughter Anita's family in South Dakota.

The weather was cloudy, but dry, in Portland when we boarded our Jet Blue flight to New York's JFK airport at around 4 p.m. Shortly after everyone was settled in their seats, the pilot came on the intercom and announced that there were severe thunderstorms in the New York area that were causing air traffic delays. He expected we would sit on the ground for about an hour before traffic cleared enough for us to head for New York.

This delay turned into about 2.5 hours and got us into New York after our scheduled departure there. Lucky for us, our departing aircraft was just arriving at JFK as we got to the departure gate, so we were able to catch our flight to Denver about two hours later.

We arrived in Denver well after midnight and checked out our Budget rental car, a Ford "con-Fusion" in near total darkness.

It was a very nice car, but I had trouble finding "need to know" things, like the headlight high beams, the trunk release, heater and A/C controls, etc. Next day in daylight we found most of the controls we needed most, but it would have been nice if they put the car owners manual in the vehicle!

We had an enjoyable weekend with Dean, Sam and twins Amanda and Ryan, where our activities included a trip to Rocky Mountain National Park. Ryan and Amanda enjoy climbing the rock piles on an alluvial fan caused by a creek which flash flooded when its dam broke several years ago. After that we watched a bull elk with a harem of five cows, as he performed all sorts of antics and bugled while trying to demonstrate his undying affection for the ladies. The "girls" all stayed just out of reach, while keeping their options open in case a better "man" came along. As it started getting dark, we left the elk to their courting and looked for a good restaurant on our way back to Denver.

On Monday morning we headed for Custer, S.D., for a few days with Anita, Dan and kids Sierra and Bryce. It took about six hours to drive from Dean's home in Strasburg, Colo., to Custer, but beautiful sunny weather prevailed and we had a nice drive.

After Mona started driving while I rested my eyes, she asked me, "How do I shut off the seat heater? My backside is getting fried!" I dunno, and I can't find any switches on the dash. Did you try the switches on the left side of your seat? "I fiddled with them but it's still hot!" Next time you stop, I'll look over your seat. When she stopped at a gas station, I examined the left side of her seat and found that it held three switches, while the passenger side seat had only two switches. I flipped the rearmost of the switches in the opposite position from where it was set and hoped for the best.

Mona didn't complain of the heat again, so I guess I flipped the correct switch.

Their home in Custer is in the midst of the Black Hills, so many hiking trails and other attractions are within less than 30 minutes driving time. We hiked several of the shorter easier hikes so that three-year-old Bryce and Mona would enjoy accompanying us.

Anita did a good job fitting our hiking and walking in while Sierra was in kindergarten classes and/or Bryce was in daycare class. Tuesday Bryce hiked with us, and Wednesday he went to class, while Anita and I hiked in the Cathedral Spires area of the Black Hills.

Both days we hiked I carried one of the aluminum water bottles by running a couple fingers through the hole in the screw-on cap.

Never a thought of my carpal tunnel syndrome entered my head until Wednesday evening. By then, my right hand and wrist had begun to swell. During the night the swelling increased until I was bothered by pain in the right hand. When Mona found out about it in the morning, she prescribed two Advil every four hours until the pain went away. By midday Thursday, I had pretty much full use of both hands.

Sierra and Bryce demonstrated one of their toys like I had never seen before. The oddest thing is that it uses tiny plastic balls, which I'm surprised are not banned for three year-olds.

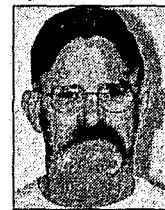

The kit includes little plastic perforated screen which just holds the tiny beads. An exchangeable color pattern can be stuck beneath the screen, so that little hands can place beads in the holes over the color pattern. Then the pattern, with the beads in the little holes is taken outside on the deck and sprayed with a small water pistol type thing. The whole item is then left outside to dry.

Next morning, the beads can be picked up off the plastic screen and they retain the shape of the pattern they had covered!

I was impressed. Another useless object has been created!

Franklin Grange 124 met Monday evening. Connie James from Seniors Plus was the speaker.

She gave each one a bag of information on programs that they provide for free. It was very interesting. Next meeting is Oct. 17. In November the first meeting will be held on Monday evening, but the second meeting will be held on Saturday, Nov. 19, a day meeting. The next Hee Haw show will be Saturday, Nov. 5, at 7 p.m. at the Grange Hall. It was voted to do the kitchen repairs, as we have money enough now for that, and do the bathroom in the spring.

Services at the Baptist Church are Sunday school at 9:15 a.m., morning worship at 10:30, evening service at 6:30 Wednesday evening at 6:30 is prayer meeting. On Saturday, Oct. 29, will be teen activity. Pizza and bowling time and place to be announced. Bus riders trip to McDonald's on Oct. 30 following morning church. Matt Jones will be speaker for a couple weeks.

Sympathy is extended to the families of Pete Andrews and Alice Kennison.

On Saturday Bob Hoyt came to visit and Sunday dinner guests at Ken and Alice Hoyt's were Beth, Steve and Marybeth Hoover, Jo Ann and David Crockett and Jim Hoyt. They celebrated their father's birthday.

The Woodstock-Greenwood

Senior Citizens traveled to the Village Inn in Auburn on Oct. 6. Next meeting is Nov. 3 at Locke Mills Church.

The Historical Society Museum has fine glass and china. In glass they have everything from Peachblow to Carnival pieces. In china it even has Chelseaware, pink bistro, and Limoges as well as several sets of dinner plates from countries around the world and plates from individual states. For quantity and quality exhibits look to the local museum.

Society programs are interesting and informative, so attend a meeting soon and see for yourself.

Waterford

By ROCKIE GRAHAM

It is October and we have had a few heavy frosts. I have to dig up my dahlias and other plants that have to go indoors for the winter. Had hoped to have done it already but I am down with the worst sinus infection ever. I am not convinced that is what it is, but that is what the doctor called it. Wasn't that one warm Columbus day? I am used to the threat of snow not 80 degrees. One year we went hiking around Rangeley and there was four inches of snow on the ground.

ACA (Adult Children of Alcoholic and Dysfunctional Families) meets today, Thursday, the 13th of October at the Waterford Library. All are welcome. FMI 739-9115.

Tonight there is a Harvest Supper at East Stoneham Congregational Church, Route 5, Stoneham near AJ's Market. Menu includes corned beef and cabbage. $8, $4 children.

Saturday there is a Square and Compass Day open house at the Bethel Masonic Lodge, Chapman Street, Bethel. FMI call 557-2082 or 824-8282.

Saturday in Waterford there is a Music Festival at the Wilkins House at 7 p.m. No tickets required. Donation $10 at the door.

That is all for this week. Have a great week and enjoy the weather while it lasts.

High School Football

Maranacook 42, Telstar 6; Oct. 8.

High School Boys' Varsity Soccer

Telstar 2, Spruce Mt. 0; Oct. 11—Telstar won its first game of the season on goals by Nik Conrad and Casey Thornton. Conrad scored on Thornton's assist in the first half. Thornton scored on a Tyler Brown feed. Goalie Rick James made six saves.

Mt. Valley 4, Telstar 1; Oct. 10— Telstar's Tyler Brown scored the Rebels lone goal and goalkeeper Michael Del Duca had 11 saves in a loss to Mt. Valley.

High School J.V. Field Hockey

Homecoming Game, Oct. 8 vs. Dirigo: Sadie Ellsworth scored one minute into the game to lead the JV field hockey team in a Homecoming win over Dirigo. Katie Merrill passed the ball into the circle and Ellsworth sent it past the Dirigo goalie. It would be the only goal of the game. The Rebels battled hard in the heat. Savannah Laird had many key clears on defense. Annie Cushman played hard in the midfield and did a great job passing the ball up to her forward line. Rebecca Miller did her job on the field no matter which position she played. The Rebels showed excellent determination and teamwork throughout the very hot game.— Coach Lori Davis

High School Cross-country

Rebel boys win again, Oct. 5— On what seemed like the first fall day with the real feeling of cross country in the air, the Telstar team traveled to Madison for its last regular season conference meet against Madison, Carrabec, Hall-Dale, Valley, Mt. Abram, Dirigo and Winthrop. The boys continued their winning streak against conference teams by running to the front with a team score of 28 followed by its closest competitors of Winthrop (58), Madison (71) and Hall-dale (76). The Rebels packed up tightly placing four runners in the top 6 by Josef Holt-Andrews (2nd 17:22), Ben Lewis (3rd 17:52), Adam Mahar (5th 18:42) and Bronson Dean (6th 18:44). The scoring for the boys was closed out by Matthew Keane (12th 19:40). In the girls' race, Gabi Stone ran strong by placing 4th in a time of 23:45 over the 5k course. The Rebels compete at the MVC Championship Oct. 15. — Coach Dan Crooker

High School Golf

MVC qualifying tournament at Natanis Golf Course, Oct. 5. Telstar finished 5th of the six teams trying to qualify for the States. Only two teams qualify from the MVC. The top nine individual golfers qualified for the State Individual Championships. Danny Whitney finished 16th with an 89 and Kyle Peterson tied for 25th with a round of 99.

TMS Varsity Soccer

Telstar 4, Mt. Valley 1; Oct. 6— Telstar's Mitch Lehman scored 3 goals, two assisted by Caleb Clarke, and one unassisted. Caleb added an unassisted goal of his own. The team showed great hustle and passing on a cold and windy day. It was another great team effort. — Coach Mark Kenney

Telstar 5, Spruce Mt. 1; Oct. 5—TMS rebounded to play their best overall team game of the season Avry Griffin opened the scoring followed by two goals by Brendon Stearns, one assisted by Mitch Lehman and the other by Caleb Clarke. Mitch Lehman then added two goals of his own, one unassisted and the other from Caleb Clarke. Jacob Bennett had a shutout in the first half, and the second half duties went to Schuyler Leff. Schuyler made an unbelievable save on a penalty shot when a rebound was put in for the only goal on a second chance. The team showed superior passing, communicating and spacing in the victory.—Coach Mark Kenney

TMS J.V. Soccer

Telstar 5, Spruce Mt. 1; Oct. 5— TMS improved to 5-0-1. Playing on the road, the Rebels struggled to come together in the first half, with first time goalkeeper Josh Eliot keeping them in the game. Telstar, however, came alive in the second half and utilized their passing skills to move the ball effectively. They put the pressure on by scoring three unanswered goals, with Ali Turnick scoring her first of the season on a brilliant pass from Matt Chaisson. Also scoring in the game were George Connors, Maddie Prentice, Kellen True and Duncan Forbes. Once again the Rebel defense, led by Kim Drew and Matt Bennett, dominated and shut down any chances from Spruce in the second half.— Coach Ed Connolly

TMS Varsity Field Hockey

Spruce Mt. 6, Telstar 2; Oct. 6—After having the game tied at 2-2 at half time, the Rebel defense fell apart, allowing Spruce Mountain to score 4 unanswered goals. Scoring for the rebels were Tehya Johnson and Becca Howard.— Coach Mary Learned

Telstar 7, St. Dom's 0; Sept. 29— Telstar spread the wealth in goals. Scoring for the Rebels were Becca Howard and India Orino both with 2 goals and Tehya Johnson with 3. Mariah Millett and Becca Howard both had assists. The ladies practiced hard at their passing game and Ani Inman debuted as a midfielder, working hard at the new position. — Coach Mary Learned

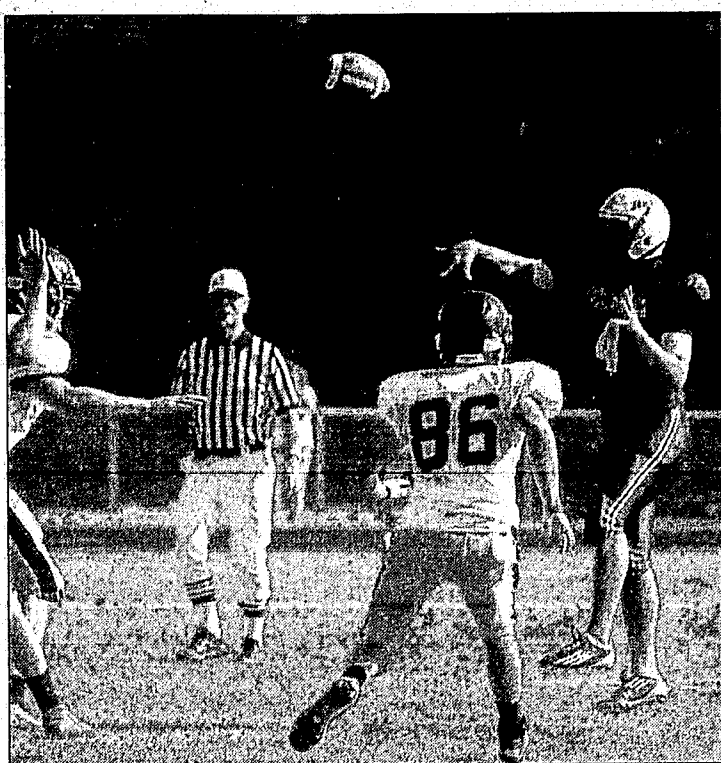

TMS J.V. Field Hockey

Telstar 1, Spruce Mt. 1; Oct. 6—Telstar midfield leaders were Mykiah Bennett, Jannay Learned and Taylor Mason. On defense Adreanna Bennett and Elizabeth Brooks kept their sticks in the grass, pushing the ball out to the sides. In the circle Shelby Cowin and Caroline Finley fought hard to try and score, with Caroline Finley coming out on top with the lone goal for the Rebels.— Coach Mary Learned

School Lunch Week of Oct. 17

SAD44 Elementary Schools Lunches

Monday: Popcorn chicken, mashed potato/gravy or Sunbutter and jelly.
Tuesday: Baked potato bar. Fajita or taco topping, shredded cheese, garlic Texas toast, steamed broccoli, or Sunbutter and jelly.
Wednesday: Cheese pizza or pepperoni pizza, Sunbutter and jelly, yogurt and strawberries.
Thursday: Seasoned diced chicken/gravy, cranberry sauce, mashed potato, dinner roll, locally grown squash, or Sunbutter and jelly.
Friday: Cheeseburger/bun, seasoned green beans, coleslaw, or pb and fluff.
Fruit and veggie bar daily (4 servings of fruit and vegetables).

THROW AND CATCH—The Telstar High School Varsity Football Team played the sixth game of its first season Saturday against Maranacook in a Homecoming matchup. Above, Rebel quarterback Dom Haines tosses a pass on fourth down that would go for a completion. Below, wide receiver Drew Wilson pulls in a pass between two defenders for Telstar's only touchdown. Maranacook won, 42-6.

National School Bus Safety Week

From the SAD 44 Transportation Dept.:

It's National School Bus Safety Week from Oct. 17-21, 2011. Oct. 21 is designated as driver appreciation day. M.S.A.D.44 is joining legislators across the state and school bus industry officials nationwide to highlight the importance of school bus safety awareness and education.

The theme for School Bus Safety Week 2011, "Stand Back From The Yellow and Black" emphasizes the importance and benefits of school bus driver training and encourages students across the country to obey school bus safety rules while waiting at the bus stop and getting on and off the school bus each day.

Celebrated the third week of October each year, School Bus Safety Week promotes awareness and education on the local and state level through poster and speech contests, school bus safety community tool kits and events.

School districts throughout

Maine will be hosting activities for parents, children and teachers to highlight the importance of school bus safety both on and off the school bus.

While school bus transportation is the safest form of ground transportation available and eight times safer than traveling to school in a family vehicle occasional accidents still happen.

"Loading and unloading children is the most dangerous aspect of school bus transportation. Too often motorists fail to heed the warning lights and do not stop for the stopped school bus."

By celebrating School Bus Safety Week throughout our school district, we have the opportunity to call attention to and to promote a key area of concern with regard to the safety of our children in an effort to prevent future injuries or fatalities.

The American School Bus Council offers the following tips for school bus riders:

-Be alert to traffic. Check both ways for cars before stepping off the bus.

-Make eye contact with the bus driver, and wait for the bus driver's signal before crossing the street.

-Walk in front of the bus; never walk behind the bus to cross the street.

-While waiting for the bus, stay in a safe place away from the street.

-Before leaving the sidewalk, look for the flashing lights.

-Never go under the bus to retrieve something you've dropped.

Additionally, school bus drivers are trained to see the students from different viewing angles and to count the number of students at each stop.

About School Bus Safety Week

School Bus Safety Week established in 1986 by the National Association of Pupil Transportation, National Association of State Directors of Pupil Transportation Services National School Transportation Association and supported by the NHTSA educates students, parents and the motoring public about the safety of our nation's children who transported daily on yellow school buses.

This week also recognizes the hard work and dedication of school professionals, especially the school bus drivers who ensure a safe journey for our children each and every day.

BHS establishes Goddard/Folsom Fund

In response to the generosity of the Payne family, Dr. John, Jane, David, and Kimball, of Rumford Center and Baltimore, the Board of Trustees of the Bethel Historical Society at its Sept. 26 meeting officially established the "Goddard/Folsom Fund for Archival Preservation and Access." As explained by William Andrews, president of the Society's Board, "Income from this Fund will support projects that enhance the preservation of and access to archival materials in the Bethel Historical Society's collections."

Among the organization's extensive archival holdings are diaries, business records, manuscript genealogies and hand-drawn maps, among other rare, one-of-a-kind items. Plans are already in place to make some of these materials available online in the near future so that researchers unable to visit the society in person will have easy access to them.

Regarding the naming of this new Fund, donor Jane Champe Payne said: "Thalia Goddard was born on the Goddard Farm in Rumford Center and was orphaned after her father (a Civil War veteran) fell in front of his team on Farmer's Hill, and her mother died of tuberculosis like much of her family in Rumford Point. Thalia and her brother, Thatcher, were raised on this farm by their grandmother, Mary Ann Kimball Goddard, and their aunt, Mary Bryant. Thalia went to Gould Academy and Kent's Hill, but could only afford one year of college at Radcliffe. She taught school in the Boston area. She married Clyde Hallett Folsom, whose father ran a general store in Oakland, Maine. He went to Westbrook Seminary (now part of the University of New England) and was dead set on working on Wall Street. He arrived in New York in the early 1900s and soon lost his job in one of the economic calamities of that era. He traveled around the US and gathered clients from his defunct investment employer and opened his own investment firm, "Folsom & Adams," on Wall Street. Having concluded that there were Depressions in the US every 20 years, he retired in the mid 1920s. My mother, Mary Folsom Champe, was their only child. They both had died before mother married so we never knew them."

BHS is extremely grateful to Jane Champe Payne and her family for providing the financial resources to create this special fund.

WMEDC new board members

Fred Henderson of Greenwood, Steve Merrill of Norway, and Chuck Williams of Minot have joined the Western Maine Economic Development Council Policy Board of Directors. WMEDC facilitates regional economic development throughout Oxford County and bordering towns.

Henderson is a retired businessman and a former co-owner of Ken & Fred's Carpets which was located in Norway. He has lived in Greenwood since 1988 and has served on the board of selectmen for the past 10 years.

Preparing for Colder Weather

(StatePoint)

There's nothing worse than being in a drafty house during the cooler months of the year. In addition to the continuous discomfort, drafts can lead to unnecessarily high heating bills.

"American homeowners know that as the weather gets cooler, it's time to prepare their homes for the season," says Robert Dischner, marketing director at Lennox Hearth Products. "Preparing your home will not only save you money, but keep your family safe during severe weather."

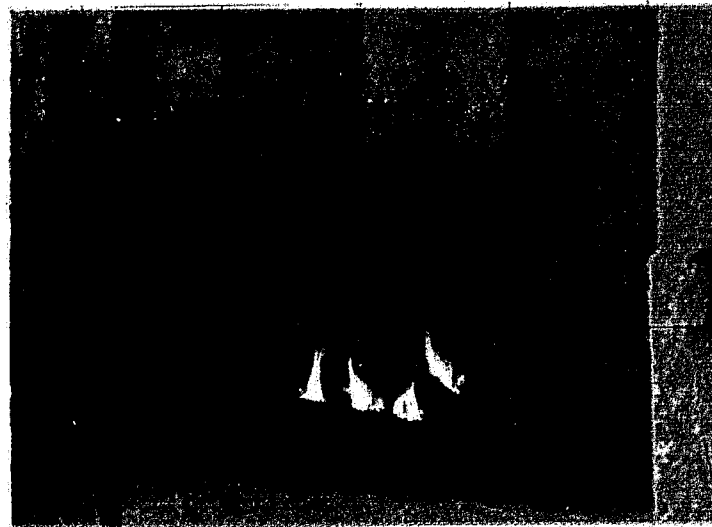

In fact, heating and cooling accounts for two thirds of a home's energy consumption. This adds up to 44 percent of all the carbon dioxide emissions in America, more than the transportation and manufacturing industries combined, according to the U.S. Department of Energy.

Here are some tips to prepare your home for the cooler weather this season:

- Conduct an annual review. Windows are best sealed using weather-stripping or caulking. Doors should be replaced if they don't seal properly. Make sure to check the foot of the door and install a draft stopper if there isn't one. You should also have a heating professional check your heating system annually, making sure it's energy-efficient and meets all safety standards.
- Clean out your chimney. Annual cleanings reduce the risk of fires and carbon monoxide poisonings due to creosote buildup or obstructions in the chimneys. They also let your fireplace burn more efficiently.
- Green your fireplace. If you have an existing masonry or metal fireplace, gas-burning fireplace inserts offer high efficiency levels that can help heat homes in a more cost-effective manner, offering convenient and clean-burning performance that reduces harmful pollution. For example, Lennox Hearth's Shoreline fireplace insert fits into almost any traditional fireplace opening and instantly transforms it into a warm and entertaining centerpiece. More information is available at www.lennoxhearthproducts.com.
- Check emergency supplies. Buy rock salt or sand before it sells out at your local hardware store. Make sure you change the batteries in any and all carbon monoxide and smoke detectors at least once a year. And stock your pantry with dry goods and other sundries, in case you're forced to spend a day or two indoors because of inclement weather.

"By preparing your home, you can keep more heat inside, and less energy is lost through the chimney, doors and other openings, keeping overall environmental emissions to a minimum," says Dischner.

So, it turns out, you can stay warm, save money, and be good to the planet all at the same time!

An efficient fireplace can save you money.

Plant Now for Spring Beauty

by Melinda Myers, gardening expert, TV & radio host, author and columnist

Don't miss a chance to color up your spring landscape.

Get busy now planting spring flowering bulbs like daffodils, tulips, and hyacinths.

Look for creative ways to use bulbs in your landscape. Plant a massive ribbon of blue squills or grape hyacinths to create the illusion of a river in your spring landscape. Or fill the front lawn with shorter bulbs for added color. Just wait until they are done blooming to mow the grass at its highest possible setting.

Mix bulbs to double the bloom power or extend their flowering beauty. I like to mix the equally assertive daffodils and squills for a double layer of color. Try combining early blooming crocus with mid spring daffodils, late spring tulips, and even later blooming allium for months of enjoyment.

And force a few to enjoy indoors or outdoors in areas where you can't plant bulbs in the ground. Give these bulbs 15 weeks of temperatures between 35 and 45 degrees to initiate bloom.

Plant spring flowering bulbs outdoors in fall, so winter's chill can set the flower buds for the beautiful spring flowers. Those gardening in the south need to look for bulbs that require minimal chilling or are pre-cooled for winter planting. Northern gardeners have until the ground freezes to get their bulbs in the ground.

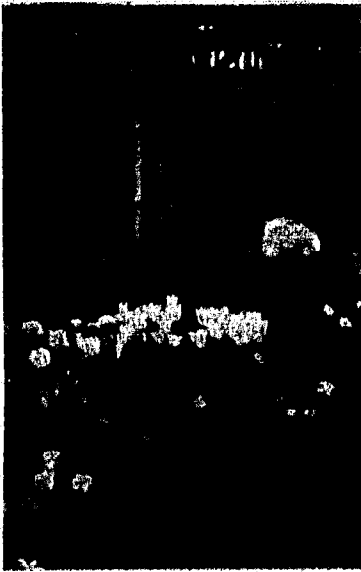

Plant bulbs two to three times their vertical height deep in properly prepared soil. Add a low nitrogen slow release fertilizer like Milorganite to the soil at planting. Water thoroughly as the bulbs are putting down roots before the ground freezes.

Those tired of battling the animals may want to plant resistant bulbs such as daffodils, hyacinths, Fritillaria, alliums, Camassia, glory-of-the snow, snow drops squills, and grape hyacinths.

Or protect animal favorites like tulips, lilies, and crocus with a bulb dip of Bobbex. Start with a pair of waterproof gloves for this task. Bobbex is safe and natural, but not a fragrance you want to wear all day long. Carefully remove the papery cover and soak the bulbs for 3 to 5 minutes in Bobbex. You will have the best results using the concentrated formula of Bobbex-R Animal repellent. Allow the bulbs to dry before planting. The scent of Bobbex masks the smell of the bulbs protecting them from hungry critters throughout the winter.

Then next spring apply Bobbex to your bulbs and other landscape plants as soon as they emerge and leaf out, protecting them from hungry rabbits, deer, and other animals.

So get a jump on the spring season with a bit of fall landscape care.

Keep your home pet-friendly and fresh

(ARA) - Of course you love your pets, but let's face it: Whether you're hosting guests or trying to sell your home, the last thing you want visitors to remember is an odor. Luckily, there are a number of ways to eliminate odors and let your home's personality shine.

Refreshing walls

Paint is one of the most dramatic and cost-effective ways to give your home's interior a new look, and now it can also give your home a new fresh scent. Dutch Boy's Refresh paint features odor-eliminating technology from Arm & Hammer. It reduces odors caused by pets and other sources, keeping your home smelling as good as it looks. Proven to reduce household smells, a coat of Refresh paint will prevent bad odors from lingering for months. By trapping and neutralizing odor molecules, this paint doesn't cover up unappealing smells, but actually reduces them. And Refresh paint is available in Dutch Boy's broad range of colors, so you can reduce unpleasant smells without compromising your decorating taste.

Clean with steam

Even if your pet isn't allowed on the furniture, your home furnishing fabrics are holding onto unpleasant scents. Though you may vacuum regularly, animal hair and dander are trapped in the fibers of your cushions, curtains, sofa and other decor. Using a steam cleaner is the best way to eliminate bad smells in upholstered furniture and other items that cannot be laundered. Hire a professional service to treat the common areas in your home, or purchase a steam cleaner specifically designed for pet hair removal. Deep-clean common area fabrics several times each year, and to help maintain a fresh smell day to day, use an odor-neutralizing fabric spray regularly.

Hit the floor

The biggest source of your home's objectionable smell could be right under your feet. As anyone who has house-trained a pet knows, they don't always get it right, and sometimes those accidents go unnoticed and cause stains to inevitably set in. To remove odors of any age, scrub bare floors with white vinegar and water or an odor-neutralizing cleaner, and thoroughly wash carpets and rugs using an odor-neutralizing shampoo. You can also hire a professional to clean the carpets and provide extra deodorizing treatments. If stains or smells remain, you'll likely need to replace the carpet and padding. If this is the case, be sure to scrub the floor beneath before laying new carpet down. After the carpet has been thoroughly cleaned or replaced, regularly use carpet deodorizer formulated for pet odors when vacuuming.

Scented accessories

Tie a ribbon on your odor-free home with strategically placed candles and air fresheners. Choose classic scents that complement your decor and use a variety throughout the home to avoid an overpowering result. Many candles and fresheners offer odor-neutralizing technology as well as pleasant scents, ensuring unfavorable smells are not only covered up but eliminated. Jars of potpourri, or scented crystals add touches of personality to any room decor as well.

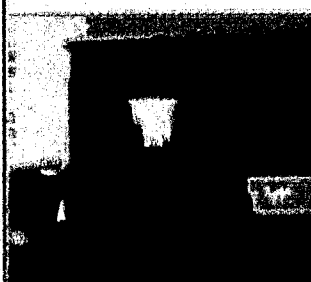

No matter what types or the number of pets that share your home, these tips will help keep it smelling fresh all year round.

DAVID WEEKS LEIGH

David Weeks Leigh, 79, of Lumberville, Pa., and Bethel, Maine, died on Sunday, Oct. 2, 2011 after a long illness. Raised in Yardley, Pa., he graduated from Pennsylvania State University in 1950. He attended the University of Tennessee and Lowell Tech Institute and graduated from Salem University, in Salem, Mass.

David was an Atomic Veteran, having served in Nevada during the atmospheric test program. Later, he was employed as a civilian at Oak Ridge National Laboratories, in Tenn.; Industrial Reactor Laboratories, in Plainsboro, N.J.; and during the clean-up at Three Mile Island, in Pa. By the time of his retirement from the military, David had served in the Navy, Army, and Air Force, as well as the Air National Guard. Active duty missions included the Viet Nam War and the 1962 Berlin Crisis in France. He retired with the rank of Master Sergeant and remained active in several veterans' organizations, most recently with "Veterans for Patrick Murphy." His last employer was Bechtel Corporation.

David was an active member of AOPA and spent many happy hours flying his plane and getting certified to fly seaplanes while in Alaska. His love of flying led him to volunteer with "Freedoms Wings," a nonprofit entity dedicated to flying the physically disabled in specially adapted gliders.

David is survived by his wife, Sally Stevens; daughter, Laurel Leigh, of Brigantine, N.J.; son, Malcolm G. Leigh II of West Creek, N.J.; grandsons, Eric Leigh, of Sarasota, Fla., Daniel Leigh, of Tucker, N.J. and Evan Leigh, of Philadelphia, Pa.

In lieu of flowers, contributions can be made to Freedom Wings International or a charity of your choice.

Send condolences to www.varcoethomasfuneralhome.com

ROSALIE G. DAVIS

Rosalie G. Davis, age 60, of Robert True Drive in Newry, died unexpectedly Wednesday, Oct. 5, 2011 at Rumford Hospital with her loving family at her side.

She was born in Rumford, Maine on Jan. 25, 1951 a daughter of Robert G. and Roberta M. (Smith) Gordon.

Rosalie was educated in Dixfield schools.

She was employed for many years as a bar tender at Weston's Pub in Mexico and most recently at Grand Summit Hotel at Sunday River.

Rosalie was an avid coin collector and loved hunting and fishing.

She will be remembered as a loving wife, daughter, mother, sister, grandmother and great-grandmother.

Surviving are her husband of 20 years, Kenneth L. Davis of Newry; her mother, Roberta Tremblay of Rumford; three children, Erik Frost and wife Michelle of Dixfield, Amy Schmersal and husband Eric of Rumford, and Bobbi Frost of Dixfield; a stepdaughter, Deanna L. Davis of Rumford; three sisters, Brenda Skidgell and husband William of Dixfield, Lorraine McLennan and companion Charles Smith of Livermore Falls, and Nicola Sarrazin of Iowa City, Iowa; a stepister, Dawn Pratt and husband Paul of Wilton; a stepbrother, Terry Brady of Anchorage, Alaska; four grandchildren, Robert Schmersal, Chrystle Frost, Natasha Frost, and Michael Frost; and four great-grandchildren, Colby Frost, Desmond Bartley, Jr., Danika Bartley, and Lillyanna Frost.

You are invited to share your thoughts, condolences, and fond memories with the Davis family by visiting their guestbook at www.SGT-HibaultFuneralHome.com.

A Time of Sharing and Remembering was celebrated Sunday, Oct. 9, at SG Thibault Funeral Home, Rumford. In lieu of flowers contributions in Rosalie's memory may be made to The Patrick Dempsey Center for Cancer Hope and Healing at CMMC, 10 High Street, Suite 301, Lewiston, ME 04240.

MARY E. McMILLAN

Mrs. Mary E. McMillan, 77, died Sunday Oct. 9, 2011 at Parkland Medical Center in Derry, N.H., after a long illness.

Born in Bethel, Maine on Dec. 17, 1933 she was the daughter of Theodore and Ruth Dunham. She graduated from Woodstock High School in 1953.

She was married to Roland E. McMillan on April 17, 1954. They resided for many years in Rumford, Maine, retired to Eustis, Fla., returning to Derry, N.H., in 2008 to be lovingly cared for by their daughter Darlene, son-in-law Steven, and grandsons David and Dylan Owens.

Survivors include her husband, Roland McMillan of Derry, N.H.; daughter, Darlene Owens and her husband Steven of Derry, N.H.; sons, Donald McMillan and his wife Kathy of Diamond Bar, Calif., and Dale McMillan and his wife Deborah of Limerick, Maine; granddaughters, Michelle Pelletier, Dixfield, Maine, and Jill McMillan Livermore, Maine; grandsons, David Owens and Dylan Owens, Derry, N.H.; Michael Swett of Chelsea, Maine and Patrick Pelletier of Wilton, Maine; sister, Bessie House of Bryant Pond, Maine; and brother, Roland Dunham of West Paris, Maine; and six great-grandchildren.

She was predeceased by both parents; sister, Alberta Scribner formerly of Albany, Maine; son, David McMillan formerly of Wilton, N.H.; grandson, Steven Owens Jr. formerly of Derry, N.H.

Online register book and memories may be shared with the family at www.meaderandson.com.

Friends are invited to call at the Meader & Son Funeral Home, 3 Franklin Street, Rumford, Maine on Saturday from 12-2 p.m. Interment will be in the Abbotts Mill Cemetery immediately following. Those who desire may contribute to the Maine Alzheimer's Association, 180 Lancaster Street, Suite 160B, Portland, Maine 04101 in her memory.

LOUISE JACOBS RICHTER

Louise Jacobs Richter, 91, a resident of Pennswood Village, Newtown, Penn., since 2003, passed away peacefully on Oct. 8, 2011, after failing to recover from emergency surgery, at St. Mary's Hospital. She was born in Ware, Mass., on Dec. 5, 1919 and grew up in Berlin, N.H. and Montreal, Canada. She attended Gould Academy in Bethel, Maine, Westbrook College in Portland, Maine, and Rhode Island School of Design in Providence, R.I. In 1940 she married George A. Richter Jr. (Rick), who predeceased her in January 2010.

Louise lived a long, healthy and full life. She loved theater, movies and museums. She was generous with her friends and neighbors, entertaining often. She enjoyed traveling and meeting new people, but she also had a gift for staying in touch with old friends and old places, like the beloved family "camp" on Twitchell Pond near Locke Mills, Maine.

Louise was a natural but serious gardener who knew her plants by their Latin names. In her younger days she worked holiday seasons at a local flower shop and became active in garden clubs, winning many awards for her flower arrangements. More recently she prepared flower arrangements for Pennswood Village.

Those who knew and loved Louise will remember her extraordinary energy, her laugh and her practical "let's get the job done" spirit.

She leaves a brother, Thomas as Jacobs of Glens Falls, N.Y., two daughters, Anne Richter and Janis Richter; three grandchildren, David Pekarek Krohn, Amy Nakazato Filiaci and Tanya Coddington Krohn; and six great-grandchildren, Tomio and Julia Filiaci, Mila and Maslow Pekarek Krohn, and Jackson and Zeke Parker.

Births

Angel and Dylan Pratt of South Paris are pleased to announce the arrival of a baby boy, Connor Maurice Pratt, born on Sept. 7, 2011 at 11:22 a.m. at Stephens Memorial Hospital, weighing 8 pounds. Paternal grandparents are Helena Westleigh of Oklahoma and Carmen Pratt of Texas.

Connor joins a sister, Isabelle Pratt, 2 and brothers Tristen Pratt, 11 and Brock Littrell, 8.

Card of Thanks

I would like to thank everyone for their support and generous donations to the Dempsey Center for Cancer Hope and Healing. The walk was Saturday, October 8. The weather was perfect and everyone's emotions and spirits were high! It was a truly amazing and humbling event to watch and participate in. I was honored to participate in the 5K and the Survivor Walk. I thank all my donors from the bottom of my heart.

Thank You So Much!
